4. Russ Hall: GIS Specialist Allegany County

- Russ Hall, GIS Coordinator for Allegany County, gave an extensive presentation on the county's addressing authority and map-making work.
 - The transition from older 911 systems to Next Generation 911 (NG911).
 - Why GIS accuracy is increasingly critical for dispatch, utilities, elections, and other public systems. He explained that Current 911 routing still relies on older technology and can misroute calls, especially with VoIP and cellular phones.
 - NG911 will use GPS-based routing so calls are directed by actual location rather than phone configuration or legacy routing tables.
 - GIS data is being rebuilt so dispatchers can better determine response configurations and emergency routing.
- He emphasized that addressing is centrally managed through his office and that the post office now requests new addresses from the county rather than assigning them locally. He also discussed signage and said many towns have address-sign policies, though not always written down.

- He recommended written policies and noted that towns often tie address assignment to the building permit process. He said Angelica is in good shape with a relatively low address-error rate compared to many other towns.

5. Resolution No. 11-2026: Resolution Adopting a house numbering and address sign policy for the Town of Angelica

- The resolution states that: Properly assigned and clearly displayed addresses help fire departments, EMS, law enforcement, and other responders locate properties quickly. Property addresses are assigned through the appropriate Allegany County authority, not independently by the Town. Residents and property owners may purchase reflective address signs and/or posts through the town clerk's office.
- Discussion clarified that the policy is for new addresses only and does not change any existing established addresses. A resident raised concerns about whether their current address would be changed, and the board repeatedly explained that existing addresses remain unchanged. Hall confirmed that the policy is designed to improve consistency and accuracy for new construction and new address requests.

A motion was made by J. Metatos and Seconded W. Weaver to approve resolution 11-2026. All ayes, resolution passed.

6. Update on Battery Energy Storage System (BESS) Facility

The board moved into discussion of BESS issues and Local Law No. 1-2026. The supervisor said the board had not heard anything from CTC and that no application was currently pending. He said he had met with the town attorney and that there was useful input from the public hearing. The board indicated it is reviewing the law and may change, tighten, or delete some provisions to improve it. The board stated that additional formal steps would still be needed before adoption. The supervisor said Part 1 had already been completed and approved by the planning board, and that the board would be proceeding with the remaining environmental review steps.

During the public comment period, several residents offered comments. J Presutti spoke first. She asked that the board be transparent and consider residents' feelings, safety, and long term best interests instead of short-term financial gain. She opposed the project, saying it would affect the land and natural surroundings and that the situation could not easily be undone once approved. She also asked whether the supervisor had any involvement in the land lease or with the company and its principals prior to September. The Supervisor replied that he had no involvement and did not know about the lease until after the public hearing and email notice. Jen also asked about the project's address, and the board explained that there are two different addresses and that Russ Hall is working on that issue.

Casey Jones spoke next and said the board should approve the law now, even if flawed, because at least it would give the town something on the books to rely on while amendments are made later.

SEQR Parts 2 and 3 for Local Law 1 of 2026 in regards to Battery Energy Storage Systems were completed. Part 2 and 3 are now complete and filed.

After the Part 2 & 3 responses, the board approved a negative declaration (motion by J. Metatos, Seconded by W. Weaver – all ayes) indicating no significant adverse environmental impacts requiring an environmental impact statement. The board signed the SEQR form after approval. The supervisor then explained that the next step is likely adoption of the law at a future meeting.
